Headline:
Dry but becoming increasingly hot this weekend.

Today:
Any early mist patches quickly clearing to leave another fine and dry day, with plenty of sunshine. Generally feeling warmer than Thursday. Light winds inland, but becoming locally breezy along the coast, keeping these areas slightly cooler. Maximum temperature 27 deg C (81 deg F).

Tonight:
Warm, dry and sunny this evening. Overnight largely clear skies, with just a little patchy cloud possible. Some pockets of mist and fog may form in rural areas. Minimum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Saturday:
Dry with plenty of strong sunshine, and feeling very warm or locally hot inland, with light winds. The wind becomes onshore, keeping the Lincolnshire coastal slightly cooler. Maximum temperature 30 deg C (86 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunday dry, sunny and locally hot. Monday and Tuesday very warm with sunny periods and perhaps isolated heavy afternoon showers developing, although probably cooler and cloudier for eastern areas.
